ANALYSING AND ASSESSING EFFECTIVENESS OF BUSINESS CONTINUITY MANAGEMENT

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

The Covid-19 pandemic is causing mega-scale disruptions to businesses and societies, most of which are working to regroup, re-strategise, and execute. Adding to the disruptions is another uncontrolled variable – the time taken until business recovers. Many will contend that businesses will not be usual anymore due to structural changes inflicted by the coronavirus, and the next denominator that people will reach for is the issue of “sustainability”. For many organisations, business growth strategies have to be redesigned to be one about business sustainability. But internal auditors are encouraged to keep growing by examining and adding value to business continuity management practices in organisations and be at the forefronts of business recoveries and preparing organisations adequately to face future turbulences.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

By the end of this workshop, participants are expected to be able to:

- Understand objectives of business continuity management from an audit perspective;
- Discover the business risks and impact arising from disasters;
- Understand methodologies of business continuity management;
- Formulate action plan from conclusions

PROGRAM CONTENTS

Session 1 (2 Hours)

- Global and national examples of disaster impact on business – a never ending issue.
- Addressing the organisational going concern assertion – why sustainability rather than growth is key to survival.
- Addressing impact of disruptions on organisational revenue, expenses, assets, and liabilities.
- Case studies of various disruptive events and probable / possible impact.

Session 2 (2 Hours)

- Identifying critical business processes that requires mitigation and recovery.
- Determining process integrity in the event of business disruptions.
- Analysing robustness of supply chain.
- Assessing data integrity and accessibility

METHODOLOGY

- Lectures on key concepts, frameworks and methodologies;
- Presentation and discussion of case studies;
- Group discussions and brainstorming on organisational scenario;
- Summarisation of key issues.
