With all this amassing data, it's no surprise that in the year of GDPR (General Data Protection Regulation) we saw “personal data” surge as a particularly hot topic and a challenge that leaders and organizations around the world had to meet head-on. As more people and business decisions are influenced by data, leaders and decision-makers must continue to be vigilant in how they use their data to track behaviors and influence people and consumers.

Special Presentation - Walk the Talk: Rethinking Value Creation
