

VIRTUAL TRAINING

WEB28 - Competencies for Internal Auditors

29 July 2021

OVERVIEW

Internal auditing is conducted in diverse legal and cultural environments for organizations that differ in purpose, structure, size and complexity. The IIA's International Professional Practices Framework (IPPF) provides the internal auditing definition, core principles, standards and code of ethics as part of mandatory guidance. One of the requirements in the Standards relate to proficiency of internal auditors. "Internal auditors must possess the knowledge, skills, and other competencies needed to perform their individual responsibilities."

Internal auditors, individually and collectively as a team, need to be competent but technical skills alone is not adequate to deliver superior results. Behavioural competencies play a significant role in one's career progression. In this program, a few concepts around organisational effectiveness, leadership styles will be discussed. Key behavioural competencies such as communication, critical thinking and relationship building will be explained.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

By attending this course, the participants will be able to:

- To understand the context and importance of behavioural competencies
