NATIONAL CONFERENCE 2021

Internal Audit: Vigorous and Versatile

27 & 28 SEPTEMBER 2021

VIRTUAL EVENT

Internal Audit: Vigorous and Versatile

The global COVID-19 pandemic has changed our experiences, attitudes and behaviours resulting in companies needing to consider the impact of these changes on the way businesses should respond to minimize disruption from Covid-19 while finding new strategies in navigating realities to stay resilient in stressful times.

Boards of directors and senior management are under increasing pressure to stay on top of current and new risks, requiring specialised assurance. Stakeholders expect internal audit to “look deeper and see further”, acting as a lever for change to support an organisation’s strategic agenda.

Leaders are facing the crisis with a spirit of reinvention –accelerating digital transformation, greater demand to improving the cost structures through exploring and experimenting agile operations and business model. Understandably this may be a daunting prospect, especially if new skills and an out of the box mindset are required. To be successful in supporting the demand, the internal audit is required to be ready to do things differently under rapidly changing conditions. Internal audit must be robust and resourceful in opportunity identification. The time has come for internal audit to be vigorous and versatile to capitalise on the growing need to provide strategic insight and foresight in overcoming the unprecedented challenges, in addition to addressing the hindsight on what had happened.

Speaker

Arina Kok Partner, EY Malaysia

TRACK B2

Get in the Middle

With today's speed of business, Internal Audit leaders need to be agile in order to stay relevant. Although we need to be willing and able to audit anything; we can't audit everything, and so we need to know what matters most to our enterprise. In this session, we will learn how to move from being separate and having to integrate; to being more integral to the Enterprise Risk Management program. Topics to be discussed include:

- Alignment with maturity models and IIA guidance
- How to get in the middle of ERM
- Examples of ERM linkage to internal audit plans
- Report a higher level of risk assurance coverage
- Successes and challenges

Speaker

Tim Berichon Managing Director of Insights & Intelligence and CAE Engagement at The IIA

AUDIT COMMITTEE TRACK B3 (AC)

This has provided a reason to spotlight the importance of a purpose-driven strategy to drive business and societal value and highlighted the interrelationship between long-term corporate strategy, the environment, and society. Some companies have re-evaluated their corporate purpose and ability to drive the long-term sustainability of their enterprise by addressing environmental, social, and governance (ESG) strategies and challenges. The "G" in ESG and the important role the board of directors and each board committee, especially the Audit Committee, plays in overseeing the company's transparency around sustainability initiatives continues to be a primary focus in the ESG conversation. The "G" in ESG has been vague thus far due to the dynamism, complexity and ambiguity over the external "E" and "S" factors inundating a company's ecosystem. There is heightened pressure and focus by investors and other stakeholders to understand how companies create long-term value by incorporating ESG objectives into strategy and key decisions. This session attempts to digest and simplify the "G" within the ambit of the Board and Audit Committee and look at trends of the challenges and what works. In many instances, the effects of the Covid-19 pandemic and the social justice movement have prompted companies to move at a quicker pace more than ever. Speaker Cheryl Khor ICDM Faculty & Fellow
